

ARKANSAS INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION ROLE AND SCOPE DESIGNATIONS

Introduction

The Arkansas Higher Education Coordinating Board is charged with establishing appropriate role and scope designations for each public higher education institution in consultation with representatives of the colleges and universities. The statute under which this responsibility is assigned to the Coordinating Board (ACA 6-61-207) also requires that these designations be reviewed on a periodic basis. An amendment to this Act, enacted in 2005, requires these designations to incorporate consideration of the changing economic needs of the state.

The designations under which institutions are currently operating were adopted in 1999. In keeping with the requirement for periodic reviews, the Coordinating Board has undertaken a process designed to yield an updated set of role and scope designations. The results of this effort were presented to the Board for action in October 2007. Concerns expressed by members of the Board led to a deferral of action and a staff decision to engage an external consultant to work with them and representatives of the colleges and universities to develop a set of role and scope designations acceptable to the Board.

It is within this context that staff of the National Center for Higher Education Management Systems (NCHEMS) were asked to:

- Review the 1999 versions of role and scope statements.
- Review the set of statements proposed in 2006 along with information reflecting concerns expressed by Board members.
- Prepare draft statements of mission/role/scope for each public institution in Arkansas.
- Review this draft material at a meeting with Department of Higher Education (DHE) staff and others and submit a final set of suggested statements incorporating modifications to the draft agreed upon at this meeting.

General Approach

In describing the mission/role/scope of colleges and universities, NCHEMS has found it useful to establish such designations by delineating:

- Audiences to be served
- The general array of programs to be offered
- Any special or unique features of institutional mission

1. Audiences

Among the characteristics of audiences to be served are those expressed in terms of:

- Geography—what geographic area is the institution expected to serve?

- Academic preparation—does the institution admit only students with high levels of academic preparation, or does it serve adults regardless of prior levels of academic preparation?
 - Age/full-time status. Does the institution primarily serve recent high school graduates, or does it have a special role in serving older (often part-time) students?
 - Race/ethnicity. Does the institution have a special role in serving specific subpopulations—African-Americans, Latinos, Native-Americans?
 - Employers. Is the institution expected to serve employers:
 - In a region?
 - In specific industries?
2. Array of Programs and Services
- Chief among the considerations on this dimension are:
- Level of program. Is the institution authorized to offer doctoral programs? Masters programs? If a community college, is it authorized to offer any programs at the baccalaureate level?
 - Academic fields. In particular, what professional programs is the institution authorized to offer (where “professional” is defined broadly to include applied programs such as business, education, engineering, and nursing, as well as the more typically acknowledged professional programs of law, medicine, dentistry, etc.)?
3. Special Features
- Among the factors in this category are features such as:
- Research emphasis. Is research a primary expectation for the institution? Is the institution expected to create research capacity in specific fields?
 - Land-grant status.
 - Special delivery capacity. For example, is the institution charged with providing (or managing for the system) online or interactive video courses?

Within this general framework, experience also indicates that it is good practice in the policy sense to avoid the flowery language that often finds its way into descriptions of mission found in promotional pieces. Such language often obscures rather than reveals the true intention of the mission/role/scope statement.

Clear statements of role and scope that adhere to these guidelines have benefits to both institutions and the Coordinating Board. These guidelines will allow for a less onerous new-program-review process as well as a more substantive and clear academic program review process.

A change in institutional role and scope should be a gradual one. Institutions seeking such a substantive change should have established a history of progressing toward such a change so that they can illustrate their institutional capacity to do so. For example, an institution seeking to offer specific courses at a higher degree level than they are currently offering should be able to show that they have the appropriate library holdings to support that change and that they have the economy of scale in student enrollment and current degree production in the academic program to support offering a program with a higher credential. Market demand for the new credential should exist. Some existing faculty should have earned academic credentials that are appropriate to teach at the higher degree level.

Role and scope changes should be a rare occurrence and will most likely involve substantive change reviews by regional and, where applicable, programmatic accreditation agencies. An additional determinant in the decision to approve a role and scope change should be the long-term impact of the state “mix” of institutions with specific role and scope functions.

This set of criteria does not mean that certain programs cannot be offered in locations where they are needed and do not currently exist. It does mean, however, that delivery should be under the auspices of an institution with a role and scope that allows delivery without seeking additional approval—either as a joint program with the degree awarded by the “authorized” institution or as a program delivered by an “authorized” institution at an off-campus site.

There is one possible exception to the set of guidelines stated above—the instance in which change of role and scope is forced by an accrediting or licensure organization (as occurred, for example, when entrance to the practice of pharmacy was determined to require a PharmD). In such cases, the approval may have to be granted with the stipulation that approval in no way opens the door to expanding role and scope in fields where change is not essentially mandatory. In particular, expanded role and scope should not be approved for a single program where expansion is voluntary even if the stipulation suggested above is attached; the stipulation will not hold and the floodgates will open to requests for approval of many more programs on an episodic basis.

Institutional Mission/Role/Scope Designations

This section contains suggested mission/role/scope statements for each Arkansas institution using the three-part schema described above.
